

Creation of „leisure-time space“ by multiple use of urban space

„Simply Multiple“ - A strategic project by the City of Vienna

Marlies Fellingner

Municipal Department 18

Urban Development and Planning

Project Coordination for Multiple Use

Ebendorferstraße 1, 1082 Vienna, Austria

marlies.fellinger@wien.gv.at

www.einfach-mehrfach.wien.at

www.stadtentwicklung.wien.at

Photo: Hejduk, Österreichische Nationalbibliothek

Photo: Kunsthistorisches Museum/Vienna Film Commission

Photo: Palais Liechtenstein GmbH/Akodu

Photo: MA 18

Photo: MA 46/Vienna Film Commission

Photo: Stadt Wien Marketing, Christian Jobs

Photo: MA 18

Photo: MA 18

Photo: MA 18

Photo: Hertha Hurnaus

Photo: Vienna Film Commission

Photo: MA 18

Rendering: Schreinerkasterl.at

- Strategic project of the City of Vienna: “simply multiple”
- Managed by the project coordination for multiple use
- Working with two main concepts:
 - Multiple or shared use of public spaces
 - Intermediate use of mostly private spaces
- Creative usage of unusual spaces

Skatepark under a subway station; Photo: MA 18

Self-built playground. Photo: Iris Compar

temporary Beachvolleyball court in a building lot, photo: GB 17

■ Policy and strategy

- the Project Coordination for Multiple Usage is not a “traditional” planning office .
- it supports people, initiatives, institutions, ... in their efforts to implement new projects
- acts as a link and mediator between the parties involved
- does not provide funds or give instructions but concentrates on participation and mediation

Networking is our business!

Garden for one summer; Photo: GB17

„Parklife“ a multi-purpose house for the child care center, photo: MA 18

Temporary cultural use of an old market, photo: Steffi Sandhäugl

- Reacting to local, current needs – also using unusual spaces

Leisure-time space „underground“ Vienna, 12th district, photo: juvivo

- Sometimes an independent third space can resolve a problem
- The users themselves have the best ideas

Football cages on the median, of one of the biggest and most frequented streets in Vienna, photo: Ma 18

- Supporting committed citizens and their intentions to actively shape their neighbourhood

A self organized and self-built skatepark in one of the biggest urban development areas in Vienna,
Photo: alm DIY

- Projects focusing on the target group's requirements

„garden for girls“, photo: Balu&Du

- Indoor facilities as an addition to public open spaces and green areas

Multiple-purpose rooms for free-time activities that can be used all-year long, photo: M. 18

- Focus: shared use of school sports facilities
 - open school sports facilities: attractive offer for children
 - school facilities opened outside school hours
 - maximum use of available infrastructures
 - economical use of land

- Dr. Josef Resch Platz:
School sports field during the day, part of the infrastructure network of the neighbourhoods outside school hours

- ACTiN Park:
The first school sports field without fences

ACTiN Park Hirstetten, school sports facilities without fences, photo: MA 18

- Education campus: Shared use as part of the educational concept

Shared use at the campus „Seestadt Aspern“, photo: MA 18

„Open playground“

■ Aspects of multiple and temporary use

- Sustainable (use of less space)
- Economical advantages
- Takes advantage of synergies
- Participatory
- Meets conflicts with offering new spaces
- Flexible
- Meets local and current needs
- Supports health and wellbeing of children and young people
- Meets the habit of children and adolescents, so move and be active

Creation of „leisure-time space“ by multiple use of urban space

„Simply Multiple“ - A strategic project by the City of Vienna

Marlies Fellingner

Municipal Department 18

Urban Development and Planning

Project Coordination for Multiple Use

Ebendorferstraße 1, 1082 Vienna, Austria

marlies.fellinger@wien.gv.at

www.einfach-mehrfach.wien.at

www.stadtentwicklung.wien.at